QUEEN VICTORIA THE GOOD.

SPECIAL MEMOIR.

The world-wide Empire of Britain is plunged into the deepest sorrow by the ever-to-be-remembered death of her most-Glorious Queen, Victoria, who died at Osborne House, in the Isle of Wight, at 10.15 a.m. on Friday, January 22, 1901, at the age of 81 years.

Her Majesty, the Queen, despite her great age, had enjoyed excellent health until last year, when the heavy strain of State affairs, together with renewed personal sorrows, began to tell upon her, and she slowly but steadily lost of falling physical strength. It was not until January 15, however, that the first grave official bulletin, issued on the initiative of the medical authorities, stated that the Queen was unable to attend to her usual duties, and that the subsequent and increasing illness from which she was suffering was a tremendous blow to all her Majesty's subjects.

Her Majesty's illness was the result of a cold which she caught on the 15th of January. Queen Victoria attained the age of 81 years on the 24th of January, and her predecessors on the British Throne. From May 24, 1849, her Majesty then surpassed by only a few days the reign of George III., who died at the age of 81 years on the 29th of January, 1820.

Her late Most Gracious Majesty's Royal Mother, the Duchess of Kent, was a widow when, May 1815, she married Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, by whom she had three children, Prince Albert, who was first married in 1818, and Prince George, who was first married in 1820. Prince Albert, who was first married in 1818, and Prince George, who was first married in 1820. Prince Albert, who was first married in 1818, and Prince George, who was first married in 1820.

It was always a strong belief of the Duke of Kent, that the crown of Great Britain would pass to his family, and consequently he desired that the future monarch should first be the child of his own family. In 1818, he married Princess Victoria, who was the daughter of King George III., and she was the only daughter of King George III. who was the daughter of King George III.

Prince Royal, who was destined to inherit such added lustre to the annals of Britain was born on the morning of May 21, 1819, the day after the death of his father, Prince Edward, Duke of Kent, who was the only son of King George III. who was the only son of King George III.

One month after the birth of the Princess the ceremony of her baptism was performed in the great chapel at Windsor, and she was specially decorated for the occasion. The Royal gold font was taken from the Tower, and the Regent and Royal family were present in a semi-circle around it. The Prince Regent, who was the son of King George III., was the only son of King George III.

The Duke and Duchess of Kent later took the charming marine residence of General Fane at Sidmouth, Devonshire, a pleasant villa, which very shortly after was the scene of an unfortunate accident, which jeopardized the person of the Princess. The quiet repose and harmony of the delightful seashore was shattered by the accident, which shattered the nursery windows, and the Prince Regent, who was the son of King George III., was the only son of King George III.

The infant escaped from the shot, but it is a wonder that she escaped, for the bullet had struck her. The Prince Regent, who was the son of King George III., was the only son of King George III.

The visit to Sidmouth was nevertheless fraught with disaster. About a fortnight after her arrival, the Duke of Kent died. The journals of the day attributed the death of the Duke to the shock which he received from the death of his daughter, the Princess Victoria, who was the daughter of King George III.

The Princess Victoria's childhood at Sandringham Palace and elsewhere was exceedingly simple. The nursery was the room of the Duchess of Kent's household, and particularly her daughter, the Princess Victoria, who was the daughter of King George III.

The whole of the Princess's life was spent in the nursery, and she was the only daughter of King George III. who was the daughter of King George III.

From her infancy, the Princess Victoria was devoted to the instruction of her infant daughter, and she was the only daughter of King George III. who was the daughter of King George III.

 The Kaiser does not approve of ladies riding. When attending the state of Queen Victoria at Tillet he saw two women bicyclists. Turning round to some other ladies in white, who had just presented with flowers, he said: "I pray you, ladies, go in for bicycling." What his Imperial majesty may be we cannot for the life of us guess. If the lady cyclists were dressed in "bombers" we could understand the remark, the Emperor dislikes anything in women is at all unwomanly, and holds obsolete views on the woman's rights question.

 Elliott's Bronte's Husband.

Charlotte Brontë, the famous authoress, seems to belong to a far-off past, but her husband, the Rev. Arthur Bell Nicholls, is still alive. He was born in 1828, and has spent his life as an abbot, King's Comyn, Ireland, where he still is as himself in the management of loaded property—his own and that of his relatives. He married again, but the memory of Charlotte still lives in his heart, and he has written her obituary and the day of her death being never forgotten. Among the many treasured relics he has in the house is the desk, with its drawers, on which she wrote most of her life.

Ralph Moor, the able Cosani-General for Niger Coast Protectorate, having enjoyed a day at home, is about to return to the West. For a young man—he is only 40—Sir Ralph has done an immense amount of valuable work. At 21 he joined the Royal Irish Constabulary, in which force he remained for ten years. Then he left to try his fortune on the continent, where everything he touched turned to gold. He has held the present important position since 1898, and numerous affairs in most careful manner all along the coast, taking in Cameroons and Fernando Po. Some men did have got a tangle in such difficulties as latterly risen in and around the Niger river, but Sir Ralph Moor's judgment is unerring, and his tact may always be relied on.

Windsorshire, a Crimean veteran—Major-General Haassard—whose life was crowded with events. He was born on board the Euphrates was baptised at the Cape. Joining the 106th, he was present at the siege of Batoum, in the month of May 1856, and the additions to Kerib and Yenikoi. After serving in the Indian War in Canada (1856) he commanded the Royal Engineers in the Caffre War of 1877-8 and was through the Zululand Campaign. In 1871 he was appointed a Companion of the Bath, and on his retirement became an Inspector of Drawing under the Education and Art Department until that passed over to the management of the Education Department. He was best known, perhaps, as a carrier of carrier pigeons, and he was a zealous advocate of their use during times of war, but he was a great authority on the subject. He was a man of strong will and of sound common sense, and a repository of interesting information on all subjects. He was a native of Africa, and was a member of the Royal African Society.

ally has been overlooked that the Emperor is a very well educated man. His education was undertaken by an American military. The Emperor is an excellent linguist, can speak several languages quite fluently, he has a distinct horror of European cars, and his diet is regulated by a board of native medical men. The Emperor takes in many recreations in which he is accomplished. He is exceedingly fond Notwithstanding the many strange customs which govern the dining tables of high and mighty in China, that of the Emperor and his Court is in many ways a simple one, and it is said that quite a number of the dishes which appear on the Emperor's table are the same as those which are served to the people from time to time with his own hands. The Emperor is very fond of flowers, and no table is complete without being magnificently decorated with them.

Bullets continually being fired at them, and they are being killed, and serious liver and digestive diseases are all enemies as dangerous as any armed force. Disease kills more than war. These ailments are caused by the lack of food, and the lack of rest, and the lack of clean clothing. The Board decided to grant relief to the soldiers, and to the war.

THE APPOINTMENT OF ROAD FOREMAN.

At a special meeting of the Highway Committee, held on the 24th September, Mr. Smith and Mr. Kneale, acting on behalf of the promoters of the tramway scheme from Southfield to Leeds, explained the nature and scope of their proposals. The widening of the highway at several places was discussed, and the running of a line down Wood Lane to Rothwell was asked for.

At another meeting of the Committee held on October 8th, the 33 applications for the position of road foreman were considered and four selected to attend a further meeting of the Committee on the 11th inst. The four selected were: J. L. Paley, of Crofton; S. Britton, of Batcliffe;

T. F. Brown, of St. Helen's; and T. F. Brown, of St. Helen's. The Committee also made a suggestion to the Lamps and Gas Committee, that a lamp be fixed on the new Lane in Wood Lane at all times. Mr. James Hargreaves proposed the confirmation of the minutes. The Committee, he said, had gone pretty freely into the tramway scheme, and it was his duty to see that the promoters, viewed Wood Lane and the part which would require widening should be laid out in the manner proposed. The only objection to the condition that the Company should lay a line down Wood Lane to Rothwell, were they prepared to give the Committee the right to lay a line down

Wood Lane, and brought before the attention of the Committee the fact that the line to Rothwell; the Commissioners looked very favorably upon the proposal. There was not much more to be said, and the line was

WHAT A LEEDS MAN SAYS.
 What a Leeds man says is always interesting to the people. There is so much in common between these two that the happenings in one always strike a responsive chord in the hearts of the inhabitants in the other. Therefore the statement of Mr. James Laverick, who lives at 17 Holborn Terrace, Woodhouse, Leeds, which we print below will have weight with Rothwell people.

Mr. James Laverick of 17, Holborn Terrace, Woodhouse, Leeds, writes that he has suffered for some time past from sharp shooting pains across the small of my back and loins, caused by my kidneys being out of order. The pains were worse when I was lying down, and I could not stoop or bend my back without being seized with a sharp gripping sensation, that made me feel sick and troubled me greatly. This was the state of my health when a friend of mine who knew how I had been advised me to try Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, so I procured a box at Taylor's Drug Store in Boar Lane, and began to take them. I am pleased to say they have done me a great deal of good. They gave me immediate relief and as I continued to take them they completely cured me and I have had no return of the trouble since. I can heartily recommend Doan's Backache Kidney Pills to all who suffer in the same way (Signed) James Laverick.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all chemists and drug stores at 2s. 6d. per box (six boxes 15s. 6d.) sent direct, post free, on the receipt of price, by the proprietors, Doan Medicine Co., 26, West St., Oshkosh, Wis., U.S.A. If you are ill write to us. Your letter will be treated with the strictest confidence and privacy. We make no charge whatever for advice and we may be able to save you a world of suffering.

Be sure you ask for the same pills that Mr. Laverick had.

addressed to the parents of the children in question, asking them to send their children to one of the Leeds schools.

Mr. Lunn proposed the confirmation of the minutes: he was of opinion that the Rothwell High Management had neglected their duty in not sending the matter to the Leeds schools.

There were altogether about 141 children from the outside districts attending the Rothwell schools, and it appeared their attendance had been encouraged by the Leeds schools. In order to this undesirable state of things he reminded it had been decided not to transfer these coming up from the infant school, but the parents should send them to one of the upper schools under the Leeds Board.

Mr. Nicholson said they could not refuse these children unless they had not communicated for them, but he (Mr. Lunn) contended they could.

Mr. Bird seconded.

Mr. Hargreaves: How will it affect the schools; to begin with as to grant.

The Clerk: You cannot turn them out.
Mr. Hargreaves: I am anxious we can.

The Clerk: Well it will be serious.

Mr. Hargreaves: The late Committee has been remiss in their duty as to fully report this state of things to the Leeds Board.

Mr. Lunn: I am sure that these children were being taken. Now if you take these 141 children away you will affect the grant and the Rothwell ratepayers.

The Clerk: The matter has been mentioned to the Leeds Board, and the Leeds Board has cautioned against admitting Leeds children.

In July last the question arose and I wrote to the Department asking as to whether we should admit Leeds children to the Rothwell schools, and the Department replied that we could not refuse them if we had accommodation.

Mr. Hargreaves: That with regard to the children from the outside district.

The Clerk: Any children. It appears the Dept also wrote to the Leeds Board about the number of children coming to our school, and I sent the Leeds Clerk and Mr. Packer, and they expressed themselves quite prepared to receive them if we had accommodation.
